Answers and Solutions

Q:1 The correct answer is option 5 i.e. D.

The first sentence (C) sets the context for the paragraph by talking about the past, where many companies did not offer paid maternity leave or flexible work arrangements for new mothers.

The second sentence (E) then talks about the present, where there is a greater awareness of the challenges that working mothers face, and many companies are taking steps to address these issues.

The third sentence (B) provides an example of the ways in which technology has made it easier for mothers to work from home and stay connected with their colleagues.

The fourth sentence (F) builds on this idea, by discussing how some companies are now offering policies such as on-site child care and extended maternity leave to support working mothers.

The fifth sentence (D) then brings up the issue of discrimination and unequal pay, which although related, is not the main focus of the other sentences.

Finally, the last sentence (A) acknowledges the progress made so far, but also notes that there is still a long way to go in terms of providing adequate support for mothers in the workplace.

Q:2 The correct answer is option 3 i.e. A.

Q:5 The correct answer is option 4 i.e. D.

Sentence D contains an error in part D, in the use of the word 'bipartisan' which means supported by both parties, whereas the context of the sentence suggests that it should say 'partisan' meaning supported by one party or another.

The word 'bipartisan' means supported by both parties, which does not make sense in the context of the sentence. The sentence is discussing the debate over political involvement within the environmental movement, which is a contentious issue that divides different political parties and interest groups. Therefore, the word 'partisan' meaning supported by one party or another would be more appropriate in this context.

A corrected version of sentence D could read as follows: 'One of the main points of contention in this debate is whether or not environmentalism should be a partisan issue.' This would accurately reflect the context of the sentence and make it more meaningful in the overall paragraph.

Q:6 The correct answer is option 5 i.e. C.

To form a coherent paragraph, we can remove sentence E and correct sentence D, and then rearrange the remaining sentences as follows: B,A,C,D,F.

The paragraph now flows smoothly, with the first sentence introducing the topic of political involvement within the environmental movement, followed by the two opposing viewpoints on the issue. The corrected fourth sentence introduces the idea of environmentalism being a partisan issue, which is a main point of contention in the debate. Finally, the paragraph ends with a statement about the importance of finding common ground in order to effect meaningful change.

Q:7 The correct answer is option 2 i.e. B.

To form a coherent paragraph, we can remove sentence E and correct sentence D, and then rearrange the remaining sentences as follows: B,A,C,D,F.

The paragraph now flows smoothly, with the first sentence introducing the topic of political involvement within the environmental movement, followed by the two opposing viewpoints on the issue. The corrected fourth sentence introduces the idea of environmentalism being a partisan issue, which is a main point of contention in the debate. Finally, the paragraph ends with a statement about the importance of finding common ground in order to effect meaningful change.

Q:8 The correct answer is option 1 i.e. BACDF.

and public health cover topics as diverse as moral issues around reproduction, state obligations in the provision of health care services, and appropriate measures to control infectious disease.

C. Recent formal efforts to articulate international standards of ethics applicable to health and health care can be traced to the Nuremberg trials of 1947, during which the horrors of Nazi medical experiments came to light.

A. The principles that emerged from those trials, known as the Nuremberg Code, are broadly applicable to many types of health-related research involving human participants, including clinical trials.

B. The growing breadth and complexity of contemporary health challenges have produced a range of difficult questions that cannot always be adequately addressed by relying exclusively on existing policies, guidelines, or codes of conduct.

Q:10 The correct answer is option 1 i.e. BDCA.

Sentence B introduces the topic by stating that 'The Road is one of the great fundamental institutions of mankind.'

Sentence D expands on the importance of the Road by stating that it is not only a fundamental institution but also its effects appear in every department of the State. It further explains that the Road determines the sites of cities and influences their growth.

Sentence C provides additional information about the significance of the Road. It highlights that the Road controls the development of strategies, plays a role in economic development, and acts as a channel for trade and ideas.

Sentence A emphasizes the essential functions of the Road. It describes how the Road serves as a necessary guide for travel and is crucial for organized society to function. The sentence concludes by stating that the Road moves and controls all history.

Thus, the correct sequence would be BDCA.
